Hungry Bear Farm – 0 Reed Rd. Mason, NHGene Jonas – gene@hungrybearfarm.com / 603-654-6626 / www.hungrybearfarm.com

The Farm: Hungry Bear Farm grows a wide variety of high-quality produce without the use of synthetic chemicals and GMO seeds. We use a combination of low/no tillage, cover cropping, manuring, composting and crop rotation to ensure soil fertility and plant health. Most of the produce is grown on the 12 acres we own in Mason NH. We currently have 3 high tunnels and over 30 plots we use to grow in. We try to grow the highest quality crops we can for our community.

The CSA: Each week we offer our CSA members a generous amount of vegetables, herbs, mushrooms, some fruit and the occasional value-added product. Members are encouraged to take the amount of produce they think they will use and can swap items out if so desired. We set up a market style pickup under a tent in our field in Mason NH.

Orange Door Farm – 36 Curtis Farm Road, Wilton, NH 03086Amanda & Tyler Dumont – amanda@orangedoorfarm.com / 603-803-3351 / www.orangedoorfarm.com

The Farm: We are a market garden farm growing using organic practices on a 6.4 acre historic homestead in Wilton, NH.

The CSA: There is one standard share size with an average weekly share value of $30-$40 of produce per week with some peak season weeks valuing at well over $50 (think tomato season!). The size of the share will be quite generous (usually 8-12 items weekly) and provide the majority, if not all, of the veggies you need for the week as a veggie-loving individual, a culinary-minded couple or a larger family/group who likes veggies with every meal.

Vegetable selection is chosen each week by the farmers and is displayed in the barn in a farmstand/market style. Members gather the vegetables they take home each week in the barn, allowing you to ask questions of the farmers, get recipe suggestions, and chat with your fellow customers if you so choose. We always try to include several choice categories each week and additionally set up a “leave a veggie, take a veggie” trading basket.

CSA members also have the exclusive option each week to do PYO (pick-your-own) flowers, herbs, and more!

Sun Moon Farm – 121 Thomas Rd. Rindge, NHCraig Jensen – sunmooncraig@gmail.com / 603-899-2806 / www.sunmoonfarm.org

The Farm: Sun Moon Farm is an intentionally small and diverse vegetable CSA in Rindge, NH. Peace, simplicity and integrity are values that guide the work that we do here. Our family farm is committed to community.

The CSA: We include about 10 different items every week with a salad green, a cooking green, an allium (onion family), a root vegetable and at least one herb as the foundation of each share. Sun Moon Farm is also happy to share a bouquet of flowers most weeks of the season. We offer one sized share but the "farmer's market style" design of our pickup allows families to take a little more or leave some behind, customizing the bag to fit the needs of their family. One of your farmers is always available in the barn to talk about the share (or anything else!). Our barn hosts a small lending library and acts as a "hub" for the community--- we encourage customers to hang out and catch up with their neighbors when they come by to pick up their food.

CSA members are invited to join us for weekly potluck dinners (every Thursday night) and to celebrate the season at our annual summer barn party in August.

Typical Season	20 weeks / Mid June – October
Pricing	$800 (Additional financial support options are available and no community members are turned away. Learn more about Sun Moon Farm’s Pay as Led model, here!)
Pickup Location	At the farm in Rindge, NH
